

H₂-Fuel

A Technique for the Production, Storage and Release of H₂.

The storage takes place under atmospheric conditions in a powder and the release takes place without added energy with ultra pure water. Hereby not only 100% of the hydrogen stored in the powder is released, but also the same amount of hydrogen from the ultra pure water due to the chemical reaction is released.